DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-15 and 28-31, drawn to a composite structure, classified in class 428, subclass 423.1.
 - II. Claims 16-25, drawn to a method of producing composite structures, classified in class 427, subclass 385.5.
 - III. Claims 26-27, drawn to composite articles, classified in class 428, subclass 151.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions II and I are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case invention I can be made without applying an adhesive layer or by using a support other than textile materials.
3. Inventions II and III are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process

Art Unit: 1711

(MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product could be made by spraying or extruding a polyurethane layer onto a tape or plate support, applying subsequent layers, and removing the polyurethane layer from the tape or plate. Since the claims of invention III are presented in product-by-process form, any equivalent products made by another method would anticipate the invention. It is the examiner's position that a different application method (i.e. spraying or extruding) or a different support substrate (i.e. a plate) could be used to form equivalent products.

4. Inventions I and III are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product (MPEP § 806.04(b), 3rd paragraph), and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.04(h)). In the instant case, the intermediate product is deemed to be useful as an article with protective coating, and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct since there is nothing on this record to show them to be obvious variants. It is noted that invention I does not require the use of an adhesive layer or textile support layer; thus, the intermediate product could be used without an adhesive layer and with a different substrate to form a different article. Note also that the polyurethane layer is chemically altered by thermal hardening in invention II. Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions anticipated by the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. A telephone call was made to Peter Ludwig on 2/5/03 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

7. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
